Rational

The main objective is to educate and inspire:

Following the success of the first online edition of iLVS in 2021 and after the second hybrid edition in 2022, I have planned to follow it up by organizing a face to face training event complete with live workshops. Distinguished international specialists will attend the event, thus contributing to the realization of a unique event. Each participant will be able to dialogue directly with the experts. In the hands-on workshops, tutors will instruct and guide participants during each training session, giving feedback on each learning.

The objective of COGRESS is to chart the diagnostic and therapeutic course to be followed in the patient with chronic venous disease (CVD) and lymphatic disease, following the formula of Practical Training, i.e. "teaching to learn by providing a real experience, allowing the participant to be able to apply what he/she has learned, creating a sense of empowerment" in the phlebology field. Particular importance is given to the close collaboration between the different specialists involved in the patient's treatment and the general practitioner. The interest of iLVS is the involvement of the participating physician in the various stages of the diagnostic-therapeutic pathway of the patient with venous, lymphatic and ulcerative disease. Therefore, ample space will be devoted to the practical part with demonstrations on the use of diagnostic and therapeutic tools such as echo-color-Doppler, laser, sclerotherapy/sclerofoam, venous access and compressive bandaging; finally, he/she will be involved in the phlebology and lymphology pathway that the patient will have to follow until surgery by attending the established workshops and live surgery. For phlebology, as for other disciplines, the concept of multidisciplinary is applied today, characterized by the complicity between medical, pharmaceutical and paramedical professionals. In this way, it is possible to better reach the achievement of a common goal: a better quality of life for the patient, improving not only the clinical-functional conditions but also the aesthetic ones, especially in women, through the use of the latest minimally invasive methods. The training program will offer live sessions/workshops.

Each person can participate in the international il Live Venous Symposium by doing a full 2-day training program.

Certificates of attendance will be available to all participants.

The iLVS aims to achieve its intended goal thanks to the great work done by the people working to make it happen, the faculty and the sponsors who lend their unconditional support.

The iLVS will host sessions on:

- Live cases - interesting cases - Satellite/symposia workshops - Independently sponsored workshops.

We will do our best to meet the needs of all our participants and sponsors and hope that the live edition will enable more participants to learn by the standards of practical training.
